

Year of Involvement

Schools, churches, and other civic organizations look for ways to involve their members in projects that serve others. The Malawi Project offers a number of venues through which involvement can be accomplished. One is the Year of Involvement. It is a program designed to involve the entire family or group in sending inexpensive, everyday supplies to one of the poorest nations in the world, Malawi. Groups gathering these supplies find themselves more engaged and interested when they have a personal involvement.

Campaigns to gather these items can be publicized through Facebook, Twitter, community newsletters, church bulletins, school newspapers, LinkedIn, personal letters, phone calls, and neighborhood flyers. Groups focus on a particular item each month, and everyone commits themselves to the small cost to obtain and donate the item. These are sent to the Malawi Project each month and they will be added to the next shipping container on the way to Malawi. You can also commit a small amount each month to sending the 40-foot shipping containers of supplies.

Year of Involvement

Soap

Critically needed to ward off disease. Many people in remote villages cannot afford to purchase soap.

Writing Paper

Imagine wanting to write something down and having no paper. Paper and note pads are priceless.

Pencils

School children often are without pencils. Cost is only pennies, but the importance to their education is priceless.

Toothbrushes

When children cannot brush their teeth all types of medical problems can occur. Keep children healthy.

Envelopes

It is hard to send a letter without an envelope. The same is true with the need to exchange a large file of papers.

Toothpaste

What good is a toothbrush without the toothpaste to go with it? Any size tube is better than no size at all.

Band-aids

A cut, bruise, or simple abrasion can easily cause a life threatening infection. The solution is a simple band-aid.

Rubber Gloves

The Covid-19 pandemic has highlighted the need for protection from disease on all types of surfaces.

Eye-glasses

Whether it is your old pair of glasses, or a new set of readers most Malawians have access to neither.

Burn Ointment

Protection for burns is critical where a serious burn can be life threatening

Aspirin

Imagine being awakened in the middle of the night with intense pain and having no pain medicine.

Hand Tools

Imagine having no hand saw, screw driver, hammer, or pair of pliers, while so many have two or three of each of them?
